- Deductive Reasoning: Ability to apply general rules to specific problems to come up with logical answers. It involves deciding if an answer makes sense. For example, determining the appropriate crime with which to charge a suspect.

- Inductive Reasoning: Ability to combine separate pieces of information or specific answers to problems to form general rules or conclusions. For example, considering suspect descriptions provided by different witnesses to identify the most accurate description.

It requires the forming of mental images of how patterns or objects would look after certain changes. One has to predict how an object, set of objects or pattern will appear after the changes are carried out. For example, identifying a person who matches the description of a criminal after the person has altered their appearance
